AIM TO SAVE SACCO, VANZETTI FROM DEATH

ONLY FIVE COURT DAYS BEFORE END

PLAN SWIFT LEGAL ACTION TO OFFSET GOVERNOR'S REFUSAL OF CLEMENCY

LAST EFFORT TO SAVE CONDEMNED MEN FROM THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

By HENRY MINOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Boston, August 5.—With only five court days left before the date of execution, defense counsel in the Sacco-Vanzetti case today planned swift legal action to offset Governor Fuller's refusal of clemency in a last effort to save the condemned men from the electric chair.

Arthur D. Hill, newly appointed chief defense counsel, prepared to go before the Norfolk county court at Dedham and ask that the sentence of death and the verdict of guilty be set aside on the ground that new evidence was available.

Failing in that move, as the defense committee fears he will, Hill will switch to the federal courts for the first time during the seven-year legal fight, and try to obtain from Federal Judge George W. Anderson a writ of habeas corpus.

The defense committee is slightly more hopeful of the move in federal court, as Judge Anderson has a reputation of having shown leniency to numerous persons during the so-called red raids of 1920.

If that too fails, only the United States supreme court stands between the condemned men and the chair in which, unless the unusual happens, they will die shortly after next Wednesday midnight.

Meanwhile the United Press was informed that William G. Thompson had not actually withdrawn from the case with which he has been identified for three years.

He gave place to Hill as chief counsel in the belief that he could better serve the Sacco-Vanzetti cause as a witness in the eleventh-hour legal fight.

Thompson's retirement as defense head was merely to permit him to serve as a witness to alleged irregularities at the various hearings held in the past on motions for a new trial.

Retiring with Thompson was Attorney Herbert B. Ehrmann, associate counsel. In the statement announcing their retirement, they said in part:

"The case is now remitted to the judgment of mankind. We retire from the position of responsibility in the case. If further proceedings in the courts are taken on behalf of the defendants, we have no doubt that they will be taken under auspices and for purposes with which we shall be in entire sympathy; but we feel that the defendants are now entitled to have the benefit of judgment of counsel who can take up the case untrammeled by the commitments of the past, and less disturbed than we are by a sense of injustice."

Paris, Aug. 5. — The communist section of the general federation of labor today announced a 24-hour strike would be called on Monday to protest the Sacco-Vanzetti decision.

Squads of police and republican guards patrolled the working class districts and suburbs last night and today, ready to intervene in the event of disorderly manifestations. An immense police force has been placed around buildings where communists from many countries were gathering.

The police and secret service guard around the American embassy has been augmented. The increased precaution was taken on request of Sheldon Whitehouse, counsellor of the embassy and in charge during the absence of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick. It was understood White house acted upon instructions from the state department at Washington.

Feeling throughout France was becoming more bitter as the day of execution neared.

Slight disorders followed a communist meeting last night. Police charged the mob, injuring dozens.

Rome, Aug. 5. — Thousands of Italians, both fascist and anti-fascists, looked hopefully today for Premier Mussolini to make some dramatic gesture toward the president of the United States or the governor of Massachusetts in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

They admited, however, that they had nothing tangible on which to base their hopes. Rather, it was a hope born of despair, for most Italians have been thrown into deepest grief by Governor Fuller's decision.

The foreign office has maintained silence and the newspapers, with one exception, have refrained from comment. Even the Tribuna's bitter denunciation of "the blackest judicial event that man can recall" was eliminated from later editions.

Two interpretations have been given the unexpected silence. One is that the government might wish to remain aloof on the grounds that the case is a domestic affair calling purely for American justice.

The other is that Mussolini, by not allowing bitterness to enter the case such as would be created by heated press or official comments, is preparing the ground for an appeal to the American government, invoking American fairness to prevent the double execution in the face of the pervading uncertainty over the guilt of the condemned men.

Certainly action of some kind is expected, as the fascist press, during the long delays in the case, has been vehement in its condemnation of the prolongation of the suspense of the two Italian workmen, deploring the seven years of imprisonment and pointing to the world-wide doubt of their guilt.

There has been no violence or sign of violence in any part of Italy in spite of the gloom.

Stockholm, Aug. 5. — European boycott of American goods was urged today by the Swedish Sacco-Vanzetti committee as a means of preventing the execution of the two Italians in Massachusetts Aug. 10.

The committee telegraphed the suggestion to international labor headquarters in Paris.

Execution day for Sacco and Vanzetti will be the occasion of enormous street demonstrations here in front of the United States legation.

ANGERED, KILLS WIFE WITH TABLE KNIFE

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Harry Henry, 32, of Cincinnati, O., killed his wife with a table knife today and then stabbed himself to death. He was angered, police said, because Mrs. Henry refused to return to Cincinnati with him, leaving behind an unpaid bill.

Mrs. Bessie Rhosed, owner of the rooming house where the couple stayed, said Henry had roomed with her four years ago and left owing $80 he borrowed.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry came here from Cincinnati last Thursday.

LITA GREY CHAPLIN TO NAME SEVEN 'CORRESPONDENTS'

MOTION PICTURE ACTRESSES ENUMERATED IN HER COMPLAINT

ALL HOLLYWOOD BRACES ITSELF TO ABSORB THE SHOCK

Los Angeles, Aug. 5. — (UP) — Hollywood braced itself today to absorb the shock expected when Lita Grey Chaplin files her amended divorce complaint against her husband naming seven motion picture actresses as "correspondents."

According to her personal attorney, Edwin McMurray, the document will be made a court record early next week.

So charged with high explosive is the complaint that Mrs. Chaplin's original attorneys withdrew from the case and severed relations with the comedian's wife rather than to file it.

The amended petition charged that Charlie Chaplin, her husband, was over friendly with seven screen players, all prominent in the movie colony, according to Atty. McMurray.

Government Establishes "Easy Money" Era To Stimulate Business, Aid Crop Movement

FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS HAVE REDUCED RATES

REDISCOUNT RATE SET AT 3½ PER CENT ON ALL CLASSES OF PAPER

Washington, Aug. 5—(UP)—The government has established an "easy money" period to stimulate general business and aid farmers at the crop moving season.

Federal reserve banks at New York, Boston, Kansas City and St. Louis have reduced their rediscount rate to 3½ per cent on all classes of paper. Similar cuts are expected in other federal reserve districts.

Treasury officials said today that the lower money rate would be a great boon to farmers, who failed to keep pace with other businesses in post-war reconstruction. The lower re-discount rate assures better terms when borrowing money.

There has been an unusual business complex during the first half of 1927, it was pointed out. Manufacture, production, mining, investments, big dividends and insurance have increased. At the same time commercial failures have been 36 per cent more than in the first half of 1926.

The lower rediscount rate will prove a factor in rehabilitating the flood-swept Mississippi valley. Money borrowed for reconstruction work and agriculture purposes will be freer and cheaper.

The government also stands to profit by the easier money market. The reduction gives the treasury an advantage in retiring the 4½ per cent second Liberty loan bonds which have been called in, and also will be advantageous in retiring the $2,147,000,000 of third Liberty loan bonds which mature next year.

It was also pointed out that the reduction was partly aimed to give wider use to American gold abroad, as the English rediscount rate is one per cent higher. Government statistics, however, show clearly that gold continues to flow to the United States despite the disparity in rates.

ART GOEBEL ANXIOUS TO COMPETE FOR THE DOLE PRIZE OF AIR

Phillips Field, Bartlesville, Okla., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Art Goebel, California stunt flier and pilot of the monoplane "Wooloroc," second Phillip Petroleum Co. entry in the Dole prize Pacific flight, conferred with his managers here this afternoon on the possibility of an immediate take-off from the coast.

Goebel flew the sister ship of the "Oklahoma" from Wichita, Factory Point, today, landing here at 12:45 P. M.

Tentative plans would route Goebel through El Paso, Tex., thence to San Francisco. He was not expected to attempt a non-stop flight to the Bay City.

ERIE CANAL SHIPMENTS ARE AT STANDSTILL

Albion, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Shipment of grain and sugar to the west through the Erie canal was at a standstill and interurban railway service was crippled today by a break in the canal three miles west of here.

The water was at a high level, and engineers said at least two weeks would be required to repair the break. Emergency ovreland routes to facilitate shipping were discussed.

AUSTRALIA BACKS FLIER IN FRISCO TO SYDNEY FLIGHT

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The Australian government today underwrote the project of Kingsford Smith, Australian airman, to fly from San Francisco to Sydney.

Smith sailed July 15 aboard the S. S. Hahiti intending to return by way of Honolulu, the Fanning islands, Samoa, Fiji, New Caledonia and Brisbane.

A deputation of former service men who previously had been rebuffed by the government called on Premier Lang today and he promised them the government not only would guarantee the $175,000 required to get Smith in the air but to pay any other expenses incurred.

Smith was expected to arrive in San Francisco today.

AIRPLANE ENDURANCE RECORD BROKEN

GERMAN AVIATORS RISTICZ AND EDZARD USE JUNKERS PLANE

WERE IN AIR 52 HOURS, 25 MINUTES; BREAK CHAMBERLIN-ACOSTA MARK

Dessau, Germany, Aug. 5.—(UP)—The airplane endurance record held by Clarence D. Chamberlin and Bert Acosta was broken today by the German aviators Risticz and Edzard in a Junkers plane.

When they landed at 10:13 A. M., they had been in the air 52 hours and 25 minutes, almost an hour and a quarter longer than the American fliers.

The plane met all tests, said a statement by the Junkers Company the builders, and has proved its ability to fly across the Atlantic ocean.

The fliers landed amidst scenes of tremendous enthusiasm. The lord mayor and other notables scarcely had spoken their congratulations to the airmen when the crowd seized their idols and lifted them shoulder high.

All parts of Germany contributed today to the deluge of congratulations which began reaching the airdrome soon after the fliers alighted.

Chamberlin and Acosta were in the air 51 hours and 11 minutes. They began their flight on April 13 and came down two days later. Their course was over Long Island. Their plane was the Bellanca monoplane Columbia in which Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine shortly thereafter flew to Germany, establishing a new distance record.

New York, Aug. 5.—Clarence D. Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic aviator, announced today he would attempt to recapture the airplane endurance record set by him and Bert Acosta and which was broken today by two German fliers.

"All I need is a ship," Chamberlin said. "A plane such as I used three months ago with Acosta can fly 60 or 70 hours without stopping.

"I saw some good ships in Germany but not as good as those manufactured here."

KLAN WILL SUPPORT NO MAN FOR THE OFFICE OF PRESIDENT

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, asserted today that the Klan will support no man for the presidential election.

Dr. Evans, who is attending the fourth anniversary jubilee of the women of the Klan, in session here, made the statement in reply to a question regarding whether he would support Senator James Watson of Indiana for the nomination in the event Watson becomes a candidate.

DEMOCRATS IN EXULTANT MOOD TODAY

ACCEPT SO-CALLED DETERMINATION OF COOLIDGE TO EFFACE SELF IN POLITICS

FIND RENEWED HOPE NOW FOR THEIR OWN PROSPECTS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 5.—Democrats today are exulting quietly over what they "choose" to accept as the determination of President Coolidge to step out of the 1928 political picture and are finding in it renewed hope for their own prospects.

Whatever the leaders have claimed publicly about their chances for 1928, most of them admit privately that they could not expect to beat Coolidge in 1928. Whether the effect of what they deem elimination of Coolidge will be to bring harmony into their forces, or merely to accentuate the sharp differences on party issues and candidates remains to be seen.

That it has given new hope to democrats, including especially the candidates, is certain. The general attitude is illustrated in a little incident here. A prominent democratic leader, who has taken a part in numerous conventions admitted among a group of republicans that the democrats had little hope for 1928, assuming, as everyone did, that Coolidge would be the candidate.

That was Wednesday morning. Then the announcement came from Rapid City. The democrat called every member of the group—one of whom was taking a nap and had to be aroused—and told them of the Coolidge statement, adding he wanted it made plain that what he had said did not "go" any more.

Politicians began to conclude that the president meant that he is out, though some point out that a situation might arise where it might become imperative for him to become the republican standard bearer in 1928.

One republican leader here has written Coolidge asking whether he intends to let his name go before the convention. It is regarded as doubtful if he will get an answer.

Whether the president intends to stay out definitely or not, it is becoming evident as the situation clears that republican aspirants intend to take it to mean that he is definitely through, and will seize the occasion to bar the gate to Mr. Coolidge. Some of the democrats look, too, for just such a course, and enthusiastically accept the 1928 situation as lacking the Coolidge factor.

The group of potential candidates includes Vice-President Dawes, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Speaker Longworth, Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Hiram Johnson of California. Lowden's hat is inside the uncertain circle already.

FIVE ACRES LEAD AND ZINC LAND CAVE IN 30 FEET

Waco, Mo., Aug. 5—(UP)—Damage estimated at between $50,000 and $100,000 occurred near here when about five acres of lead and zinc mining land caved in, at places to a depth of thirty feet. The project had been deserted for several days as engineer believed the cave-in imminent.

Engineers later announced that the timber will be re-inforced and new tunnels made, and that work will proceed again in a short time.

13 KILLED AND 80 HURT AS HINDUS AND MOSLEMS CLASH

Calcutta, British India, Aug. 5. — (UP) — Thirteen persons were killed today and 80 were injured in a fight between Hindus and Moslems at Champaran, Bengal.

Communal riots have been occurring intermittently in India for years. The Hindus and Moslems are jealous and contemptuous of each other and neither sect hesitates to offend the other by some violation of belief. A frequent cause of Moslem anger is the activity of Hindu musicians who march past mosques in defiance of the feeling of worshippers.

ATTITUDE OF THE G. O. P. ON PROHIBITION

LEAVES UNCHANGED ATTITUDE OF REPUBLICAN PARTY ON QUESTION IN 1928

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 5.—The withdrawal of President Coolidge, a dry, as a candidate for re-election will leave unchanged the attitude of the republican party on prohibition in 1928, according to dry leaders.

"The party will nominate a dry, and, of course, will declare in its platform for enforcement as usual," it was said today by one who is close to the situation. "There will be no change whatever."

Unlike the leading democratic candidates, most of those conceded to have good chances for the republican nomination are either dry or just "slightly moist," so slightly that they will declare themselves dry to win the nomination, according to dry authorities.

Speaker Longworth, of the group of prominent candidates, is the most inclined to be wet, and is often so classed, but it was stated today by one in a position to know, that he had assured certain dry leaders recently that he would declare for prohibition enforcement to satisfy the drys. Some such declaration might be expected soon, it was said.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois both are known as drys. Though the position of Vice President Dawes is not clear, it is said he would meet the requirements of the drys, as would Charles Evans Hughes. Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, has indicated recently he would stand with the drys, it was said, and Senator Borah of Idaho is dry.

Leading democratic contenders, Governor Al Smith, Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Senator Reed of Missouri, are wet. Senator Walsh, of Montana, Senator Glass of Virginia, and Governor Donahey, of Ohio, others mentioned, are dry. So is W. G. McAdoo. The dry forces within the party will fight to nominate a dry candidate.

The Anti-Saloon League in the past has thrown its strength behind drys in state and congressional elections. Not since prohibition has the issue been raised in a presidential election. The League will face a perplexing problem if the democrats nominate a wet in 1928. Its inclination would be to support the dry republican, but that might divide its forces in the democratic south. A suggestion has been made that southern democratic drys have a ticket of their own, instead of supporting a republican, should the democrats name a wet.

The general board of the League will discuss the situation next month and the League regular biennial meeting in December will decide what to do if the democrats nominate a wet.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Federal agents working out of Duluth arrested Joe Meyers and Albert Sellwood of Superior, Wis., in a raid on a "wildcat" brewery near Bennett, Wis., late Thursday. Equipment valued at several thousand dollars was seized. Two 600-gallon vats filled with beer mash were found.

FOUR YEARS IN WHITE HOUSE IS ENDURANCE TEST

FURROWED LINES SHOW UNDER CHIEF EXECUTIVES' EYES

FINALLY ROB MR. COOLIDGE OF PHLEGMATIC DISPOSITION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 5.—Four years in the White House will test the physical endurance of a heavyweight champion and President Coolidge is beginning to show signs of the strain.

The job which broke Warren G. Harding and Woodrow Wilson has furrowed lines under Mr. Coolidge's eyes and finally robbed him of his phlegmatic disposition. Anyone who was with him through the day yesterday on a trip to Deadwood could discern through pallor of his smile an indication of the relief which his renunciation of the throne of the republican party has brought to him.

He is not sick, but he is tired and he will be glad when March 4, 1929, will bring him rest. His color is not good and his general appearance, as compared with a few months ago, indicates he has had some sleepless nights.

If anyone thinks he did not mean what he said when he announced "I do not choose to run for president in 1928" he need but look at Mr. Coolidge. Very naturally his personal physician, Dr. James F. Coupal, an able surgeon, says Mr. Coolidge's health is fine. He knows the president is no where near a breakdown and that he is not a sick man.

But to even a casual observer, Mr. Coolidge's personal appearance is altered noticeably. He has betrayed signs of impatience such as when he, without apparent cause, dismissed a secret service man recently and when he argued with Mrs. Coolidge before newspapermen and photographers later. He has at times terminated conversations with newspaper men and others abruptly. Mr. Coolidge takes scrupulous care of himself. He goes to bed early and arises early. He is careful about what he eats. He smokes ordinarily only a few cigars a day although lately he has taken to smoking almost continuously, using both cigars and cigarettes.

After the nation's experience with Harding and Wilson, agitation was begun to lighten the burden of the presidency in the belief that the job was a "man killer." This died down when Mr. Coloidge appeared to be growing fat at his work. But now the agitation may again be revived.

The tiring thing about the job is that a man feels he is always before the public eye. He cannot move two feet without secret service men at his heels. His time is not his own. He must accept a certain number of social engagements. He must dine with people he doesn't want to talk to. He must entertain even though he doesn't feel like it.

Politicians and newspapermen are dogging his every movement so closely that if he is sensitive he cannot be happy. Mr. Coolidge withstood these influences for the first few years but now that his fourth anniversary in the presidential chair is past, he is ready to quit.

What he will do upon his retirement is problematical. He is not rich but he has enough to get along on and he could return to Northampton for practice of advisory law. He might choose to go back and live an easy life on his farm in Vermont. It is not expected that he contemplates any active position such as president of Amherst college or a position like that of Judge Elbert H. Gary in the United States Steel Corporation.

Mrs. Coolidge wants rest too. The strain of social engagements has had noticeable effect upon her and it would not be surprising if she convinced the president that they would both be better off if they went back to Vermont.

Newspaper men will today have their first opportunity since the candidacy statement was issued to question the president about it. He is holding his usual semi-weekly conference for morning newspaper men.

Boston, August 5.—With only five court days left before the date of execution, defense counsel in the Sacco-Vanzetti case today planned swift legal action to offset Governor Fuller's refusal of clemency in a last effort to save the condemned men from the electric chair.

KLAN WILL SUPPORT NO MAN FOR THE OFFICE OF PRESIDENT

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, asserted today that the Klan will support no man for the presidential election.

Dr. Evans, who is attending the fourth anniversary jubilee of the women of the Klan, in session here, made the statement in reply to a question regarding whether he would support Senator James Watson of Indiana for the nomination in the event Watson becomes a candidate.

DEMOCRATS IN EXULTANT MOOD TODAY

ACCEPT SO-CALLED DETERMINATION OF COOLIDGE TO EFFACE SELF IN POLITICS

FIND RENEWED HOPE NOW FOR THEIR OWN PROSPECTS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 5.—Democrats today are exulting quietly over what they "choose" to accept as the determination of President Coolidge to step out of the 1928 political picture and are finding in it renewed hope for their own prospects.

Whatever the leaders have claimed publicly about their chances for 1928, most of them admit privately that they could not expect to beat Coolidge in 1928. Whether the effect of what they deem elimination of Coolidge will be to bring harmony into their forces, or merely to accentuate the sharp differences on party issues and candidates remains to be seen.

That it has given new hope to democrats, including especially the candidates, is certain. The general attitude is illustrated in a little incident here. A prominent democratic leader, who has taken a part in numerous conventions admitted among a group of republicans that the democrats had little hope for 1928, assuming, as everyone did, that Coolidge would be the candidate.

That was Wednesday morning. Then the announcement came from Rapid City. The democrat called every member of the group—one of whom was taking a nap and had to be aroused—and told them of the Coolidge statement, adding he wanted it made plain that what he had said did not "go" any more.

Politicians began to conclude that the president meant that he is out, though some point out that a situation might arise where it might become imperative for him to become the republican standard bearer in 1928.

One republican leader here has written Coolidge asking whether he intends to let his name go before the convention. It is regarded as doubtful if he will get an answer.

Whether the president intends to stay out definitely or not, it is becoming evident as the situation clears that republican aspirants intend to take it to mean that he is definitely through, and will seize the occasion to bar the gate to Mr. Coolidge. Some of the democrats look, too, for just such a course, and enthusiastically accept the 1928 situation as lacking the Coolidge factor.

The group of potential candidates includes Vice-President Dawes, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Speaker Longworth, Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Hiram Johnson of California. Lowden's hat is inside the uncertain circle already.

FIVE ACRES LEAD AND ZINC LAND CAVE IN 30 FEET

Waco, Mo., Aug. 5—(UP)—Damage estimated at between $50,000 and $100,000 occurred near here when about five acres of lead and zinc mining land caved in, at places to a depth of thirty feet. The project had been deserted for several days as engineer believed the cave-in imminent.

Engineers later announced that the timber will be re-inforced and new tunnels made, and that work will proceed again in a short time.

13 KILLED AND 80 HURT AS HINDUS AND MOSLEMS CLASH

Calcutta, British India, Aug. 5. — (UP) — Thirteen persons were killed today and 80 were injured in a fight between Hindus and Moslems at Champaran, Bengal.

Communal riots have been occurring intermittently in India for years. The Hindus and Moslems are jealous and contemptuous of each other and neither sect hesitates to offend the other by some violation of belief. A frequent cause of Moslem anger is the activity of Hindu musicians who march past mosques in defiance of the feeling of worshippers.

ATTITUDE OF THE G. O. P. ON PROHIBITION

LEAVES UNCHANGED ATTITUDE OF REPUBLICAN PARTY ON QUESTION IN 1928

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 5.—The withdrawal of President Coolidge, a dry, as a candidate for re-election will leave unchanged the attitude of the republican party on prohibition in 1928, according to dry leaders.

"The party will nominate a dry, and, of course, will declare in its platform for enforcement as usual," it was said today by one who is close to the situation. "There will be no change whatever."

Unlike the leading democratic candidates, most of those conceded to have good chances for the republican nomination are either dry or just "slightly moist," so slightly that they will declare themselves dry to win the nomination, according to dry authorities.

Speaker Longworth, of the group of prominent candidates, is the most inclined to be wet, and is often so classed, but it was stated today by one in a position to know, that he had assured certain dry leaders recently that he would declare for prohibition enforcement to satisfy the drys. Some such declaration might be expected soon, it was said.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover and former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois both are known as drys. Though the position of Vice President Dawes is not clear, it is said he would meet the requirements of the drys, as would Charles Evans Hughes. Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, has indicated recently he would stand with the drys, it was said, and Senator Borah of Idaho is dry.

Leading democratic contenders, Governor Al Smith, Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Senator Reed of Missouri, are wet. Senator Walsh, of Montana, Senator Glass of Virginia, and Governor Donahey, of Ohio, others mentioned, are dry. So is W. G. McAdoo. The dry forces within the party will fight to nominate a dry candidate.

The Anti-Saloon League in the past has thrown its strength behind drys in state and congressional elections. Not since prohibition has the issue been raised in a presidential election. The League will face a perplexing problem if the democrats nominate a wet in 1928. Its inclination would be to support the dry republican, but that might divide its forces in the democratic south. A suggestion has been made that southern democratic drys have a ticket of their own, instead of supporting a republican, should the democrats name a wet.

The general board of the League will discuss the situation next month and the League regular biennial meeting in December will decide what to do if the democrats nominate a wet.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 5.—(UP)—Federal agents working out of Duluth arrested Joe Meyers and Albert Sellwood of Superior, Wis., in a raid on a "wildcat" brewery near Bennett, Wis., late Thursday. Equipment valued at several thousand dollars was seized. Two 600-gallon vats filled with beer mash were found.

FOUR YEARS IN WHITE HOUSE IS ENDURANCE TEST

FURROWED LINES SHOW UNDER CHIEF EXECUTIVES' EYES

FINALLY ROB MR. COOLIDGE OF PHLEGMATIC DISPOSITION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 5.—Four years in the White House will test the physical endurance of a heavyweight champion and President Coolidge is beginning to show signs of the strain.

The job which broke Warren G. Harding and Woodrow Wilson has furrowed lines under Mr. Coolidge's eyes and finally robbed him of his phlegmatic disposition. Anyone who was with him through the day yesterday on a trip to Deadwood could discern through pallor of his smile an indication of the relief which his renunciation of the throne of the republican party has brought to him.

He is not sick, but he is tired and he will be glad when March 4, 1929, will bring him rest. His color is not good and his general appearance, as compared with a few months ago, indicates he has had some sleepless nights.

If anyone thinks he did not mean what he said when he announced "I do not choose to run for president in 1928" he need but look at Mr. Coolidge. Very naturally his personal physician, Dr. James F. Coupal, an able surgeon, says Mr. Coolidge's health is fine. He knows the president is no where near a breakdown and that he is not a sick man.

But to even a casual observer, Mr. Coolidge's personal appearance is altered noticeably. He has betrayed signs of impatience such as when he, without apparent cause, dismissed a secret service man recently and when he argued with Mrs. Coolidge before newspapermen and photographers later. He has at times terminated conversations with newspaper men and others abruptly. Mr. Coolidge takes scrupulous care of himself. He goes to bed early and arises early. He is careful about what he eats. He smokes ordinarily only a few cigars a day although lately he has taken to smoking almost continuously, using both cigars and cigarettes.

After the nation's experience with Harding and Wilson, agitation was begun to lighten the burden of the presidency in the belief that the job was a "man killer." This died down when Mr. Coloidge appeared to be growing fat at his work. But now the agitation may again be revived.

The tiring thing about the job is that a man feels he is always before the public eye. He cannot move two feet without secret service men at his heels. His time is not his own. He must accept a certain number of social engagements. He must dine with people he doesn't want to talk to. He must entertain even though he doesn't feel like it.

Politicians and newspapermen are dogging his every movement so closely that if he is sensitive he cannot be happy. Mr. Coolidge withstood these influences for the first few years but now that his fourth anniversary in the presidential chair is past, he is ready to quit.

What he will do upon his retirement is problematical. He is not rich but he has enough to get along on and he could return to Northampton for practice of advisory law. He might choose to go back and live an easy life on his farm in Vermont. It is not expected that he contemplates any active position such as president of Amherst college or a position like that of Judge Elbert H. Gary in the United States Steel Corporation.

Mrs. Coolidge wants rest too. The strain of social engagements has had noticeable effect upon her and it would not be surprising if she convinced the president that they would both be better off if they went back to Vermont.

Newspaper men will today have their first opportunity since the candidacy statement was issued to question the president about it. He is holding his usual semi-weekly conference for morning newspaper men.

For the first time in 17 years, Brainerd Typographical Union No. 593 will be represented at the International Typographical Union convention which will convene at Indianapolis, Ind., the week from August 8-13.

Wm. Demmers, president of the local union was elected delegate at the May meeting, with Albert O. Anderson, as alternate. Because Mr. Demmers will be unable to attend, Mr. Anderson left this noon for Indianapolis to represent Brainerd which will be the only other city out of the Twin Cities and Duluth, in Minnesota to be represented. Mr. Anderson, of the Dispatch force, has served as secretary-treasurer of the local union for the past 13 years.

The convention is expected to be the largest ever held in the history of the Union, fully 500 delegates being expected to attend from the United States, Canada and other countries. The convention also marks the seventy-fifth jubilee anniversary of the union and will be held in the Indianapolis armory.

Indianapolis is the official headquarters of the union and has buildings valued at $300,000 housing solely the offices of the union.

TEN MINUTES TO MAKE— TEN MINUTES TO BAKE

Recipes

Here are a few of many good recipes that require only "10 minutes to make—and 10 minutes to bake." Try them out. They are splendid and are real time savers, all thoroughly tested and proven reliable.

Date Muffins

1-3 cup butter
¼ cup sugar
2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder.
3-4 cup milk
2 cups flour
¼ level teaspoon salt
1 egg
¼ pound dates

Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and the dates chopped fine. Mix well together, then add the beaten egg. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together twice and add to first mixture alternately with the milk. Bake in small greased muffin pans ten minutes in hot oven (450 degrees F.)

Small Biscuits

4 cup flour
4 level teaspoons baking powder
4 level tablespoons butter or lard
1½ cups milk
1 level teaspoon salt

Sift flour once, then measure, add salt and baking powder and sift three times, rub shortening in with fork or spoon, add milk, mix lightly, turn out on a well floured board and roll or pat one inch thick, cut and bake in quick oven (450 degrees F.) ten minutes.

The advance guard of the Brainerd lodge of Moose arrived at International Falls this morning and immediately went into action with the idea of landing the 1928 state convention. All the automobiles in the city are being tagged with "Brainerd for 1928" placards, badges bearing the same legend are being distributed, and other devices to attract favorable attention to the city are being used.

The Brainerd boys are a live bunch and they propose to land next year's meeting, if it is possible to do so. Sentiment of delegates already here seems favorable to the Crow Wing county town.—International Falls Daily Journal.

BRAINERD TYPO TO BE REPRESENTED

Local Union No. 593 to Send Delegate to International Convention

AT INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA

Wm. Demmers, President of Local, Elected, With Albert O. Anderson Alternate

For the first time in 17 years, Brainerd Typographical Union No. 593 will be represented at the International Typographical Union convention which will convene at Indianapolis, Ind., the week from August 8-13.

Wm. Demmers, president of the local union was elected delegate at the May meeting, with Albert O. Anderson, as alternate. Because Mr. Demmers will be unable to attend, Mr. Anderson left this noon for Indianapolis to represent Brainerd which will be the only other city out of the Twin Cities and Duluth, in Minnesota to be represented. Mr. Anderson, of the Dispatch force, has served as secretary-treasurer of the local union for the past 13 years.

The convention is expected to be the largest ever held in the history of the Union, fully 500 delegates being expected to attend from the United States, Canada and other countries. The convention also marks the seventy-fifth jubilee anniversary of the union and will be held in the Indianapolis armory.

Indianapolis is the official headquarters of the union and has buildings valued at $300,000 housing solely the offices of the union.

Mrs. R. J. Thienes Entertains

Mrs. R. J. Thienes entertained yesterday afternoon for ten guests in honor of Mrs. Kate Thienes who will leave next week for Hinsdale, Mont., to make her future home.

TEN MINUTES TO MAKE— TEN MINUTES TO BAKE

Recipes

Here are a few of many good recipes that require only "10 minutes to make—and 10 minutes to bake." Try them out. They are splendid and are real time savers, all thoroughly tested and proven reliable.

Date Muffins

1-3 cup butter
¼ cup sugar
2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder.
3-4 cup milk
2 cups flour
¼ level teaspoon salt
1 egg
¼ pound dates

Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and the dates chopped fine. Mix well together, then add the beaten egg. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together twice and add to first mixture alternately with the milk. Bake in small greased muffin pans ten minutes in hot oven (450 degrees F.)

Small Biscuits

4 cup flour
4 level teaspoons baking powder
4 level tablespoons butter or lard
1½ cups milk
1 level teaspoon salt

Sift flour once, then measure, add salt and baking powder and sift three times, rub shortening in with fork or spoon, add milk, mix lightly, turn out on a well floured board and roll or pat one inch thick, cut and bake in quick oven (450 degrees F.) ten minutes.

FIVE DAYS OUTING FOR FARM WOMEN

Planned at Camp Clearwater, August 21-25; Can Accomodate 48

SPECIALISTS TO LECTURE

Program Consists of Wonderful Meals, Recreation, Camp Fires and Talks

Five days of outing on the shores of Clearwater Lake with a complete program of activities arranged are in store for 48 farm women at Camp Clearwater August 21 to August 25. Registrations are now being received by E. G. Roth, county agent and Miss Thora Ingebritson, but there are still a few vacancies left for farm women or women from the towns that care to go. Enrollment will take place at the camp Sunday afternoon, August 21.

Camp Clearwater is a beautiful place on Clearwater Lake near Deerwood, having cottages, beds, a recreational building and a mess hall. Docks and swimming beaches make it an ideal camping ground.

The cottages are mosquito proof, the camp being built by the Crow Wing Area Boy Scouts. The cost to the farm women will be $1.00 a day and the women are requested to provide their own quilts and pillows. Everything else will be furnished by the camp.

The County Nurse, Miss Thora Ingebritson, will have charge of the camp. A delightful program has been arranged for each day and will consist of wonderful meals, recreation, campfires, talks by specialists from Home Management Department of the University, State Educational Department and State Nursing Department, and also from the Forestry Department.

Some of the specialists who will be here are Miss Eves Whitfield, Home Demonstration specialist; Miss Anna Swensen, State Educational Department; C. M. Roberts, State Forestry Department; and Miss Mildred Smith, Child Hygiene specialist. Instruction by these specialists will be for two hours each morning.

The afternoon will be devoted to hikes, nature study, swimming, reading, and resting. Evenings will be devoted to campfires, at which time there will be community singing, talks on birds, forestry, and kindred subjects. Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Brainerd, C. M. Roberts, State Forestry Department, Miss Marion Opsahl, community singing, will assist in these campfire programs.

A wonderful cook, Miss Ella Newgaard, has consented to cook the meals and everything is set for a real outing for the farm women. It is hoped that the ten vacancies that still remain will be filled so as to make a full camp which will mean a complete success.

"Playthings"

Questions that are bound to come in for a vast amount of discussion will be brought up in the drama that is to be shown tonight by the Obrecht Stock Players in their tent on 7th and Maple streets. "Playthings" is its name, and the innocent appearing name is the title of a play that has caused the greatest sensation of the year, or of many years, in the theatrical world.

With a daring that marks him as one of the most important figures among the playwrights of today, Sidney Toler, author of "Playthings" has taken certain problems of life that, hidden though they are usually allowed to remain, veritably shriek for discussion, and through the medium of a play that is vital, thrilling and powerful he has set them forth before the world.

He's smelled the powder of enemy fire in the front line trenches, he's watched the ominous white streak of a torpedo from the deck of a marked transport, and now—he's adventuring in America's best known game, baseball. After gathering laughs as a doughboy and a gob, Wallace Beery scores another hit as "Casey" in Paramount's new roaring farce, "Casey at the Bat," now showing at the Lyceum.

The shrieks which greeted this picture at its initial showings have already permeated our city. Beery is said to be even funnier than he was in his two preceding films as the only baseball player who can truly be placed alongside of Babe Ruth when commenting on baseball's most colorful figures. All ladies attending tonight's show will be given a free sample of "Blossom Time" perfume.

Three Canadian Boys Taken From Box Cars This Morning; Homes at Windsor

Stated They Were Taking This Route to Saskatchewan to Work in Fields

Three Canadian youths, Barney Reaume, Art Watson, and George Bulman, all 17 years old, who give their home addresses as Windsor, Ontario, are being held by officials here for the U. S. Immigration department pending an investigation regarding their entry into the country.

The boys stated this morning that they did not intend to stay in the United States but were taking this route to go to Saskatchewan where they plan to join Bulman's parents and work in the harvest fields.

The three were taken from an N. P. freight train early this morning as they were "bumming" their way through the state. They had come by way of Duluth.

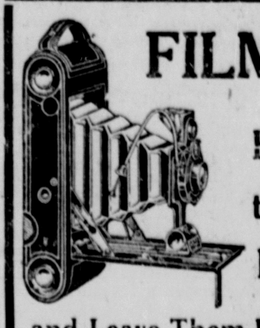

Barney Reaume stated that they were not troubled by officials in crossing the border at Detroit, Mich., as they had been accustomed to passing back and forth between the two cities.

WATER REPORTED CLEAN

Tests Made at U. of M. Shows Satisfactory Condition of Lum Park Waters

Bathers in Lum Park waters need have no fear as to the cleanliness of the water according to Earl R. Berg, Red Cross water safety director who is in receipt of a satisfactory report from the department of bacteriology and immunology of the University of Minnesota regarding samples of water taken from Rice Lake.

The following report shows that the water is free of contaminating germs: total number of bacteria per C. C. was determined by a plate count on nutriant agar, incubated at 37 degrees as 6,000. Tests on lactose broth show that there are no loctose fermenters present in a 90 C. C. sample. This shows the water is free from sewage contamination.

HEART OF MAN YEARNS FOR STABILITY

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE, writing in the Emporia Gazette, voices the fact that the heart of man in Christendom is yearning for the inventor who can bring stability into the world. We are having good business now. We have had good business for ten years in America, barring the farmer, who has had a raw deal.

But speaking of the American continent and of Christendom in general, prices have been good, profits secure, business sound.

Fear of instability, fear of panic—blind, unreasoning, tomfool fear—is the only thing that is rocking the boat of business.

As a matter of fact, more and more stabilizing influences are touching both industry and agriculture. For instance cotton, wheat and feed crops, which find their market in livestock, are the great crops, the commercial cash crops. But along with these other staples are found for which the market is steady, the demand expanding, cash always ready; dairy and poultry products, truck crops, fruits and vegetables for canning, sugar and vegetable oils.

Markets for these are almost as stable as the markets for cotton and wheat and the feed crops and the whole range of agricultural products are like the great basic industries that dominate manufactures—that is, steel, textiles, food products, lumber, cement, and so on.

But, curiously enough, these basic industrial products are ramifying their products into ever expanding fields, broader and broader. Take steel: Forty years ago three-fourths of the country's steel output went into one product, rails. Now rails take up less than one tenth of all the rolled steel produced. Where rails once dominated, the automotive construction and oil industries have become major consumers of steel in the last decade. The canning industry alone takes half as much as is rolled into rails. Literally hundreds of minor but important employments have been equalizing the steel producers' market until the steel industry is almost stable. It rests upon so many different demands.

All this is most curious. It indicates an industrial revolution. The one thing which is needed to set the revolution into a permanent way is stability.

The heart of man in Christendom is panting for stability. The new Messiah is the statesman, financier or captain of industry who can invent stability. As the Jews were interested in spiritual things and their prophets were spiritual leaders, as the feudal world was interested in overlords and conquerors, as Queen Elizabeth's England was interested in self-expression and produced a Shakespeare, so the world today is looking for the Messiah, the prophet, the seer, who will produce in all this complex civilization known as Christendom that commercial reagent that will set the flux of the alloy and make permanent this new industrial world which has grown out of the whole world.

The need of a stabilizer is tremendous. Out of the need stability will come.

WHAT MR. COOLIDGE MEANT

THE Iowa corn belt has always watched Calvin Coolidge with an eagle eye ever since he vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill. It is illuminating to read the comment of the Sioux City, Iowa, Journal on Coolidge's recent statement.

Throughout the country there is a difference of opinion as to what President Coolidge meant when he said he did not "choose to run" in 1928. Most opinions are that this was equivalent to a positive statement that he would not be a candidate. Others, however, especially politicians who are eager for him to stand for re-election, consider that Mr. Coolidge merely expressed his own desire and left the way open for persuasion.

Technically, the language of the Coolidge statement means that Mr. Coolidge's preference is for retirement at the end of his administration March 4, 1929. "I do not choose to run" is not so definite as "I will not be a candidate" would have been. "I will not" expresses determination. "I do not choose" signifies that one's desire is for something else. So the country regards the Coolidge statement as something ambiguous, and, since the president has not amplified it, doubt as to the real meaning will continue.

Here is offered the evidence that "I do not choose to run" means "I am not and will not be a candidate." Everybody knows Mr. Coolidge to be a politic man, a careful individual in every step he takes. Quiet though he may be, he is known to be an accomplished politician. He has made few, if any, errors affecting his career. He has never been moved by impulse, but has taken every step carefully. If he had meant that he preferred not to run in 1928 but would do so if republican leaders insisted upon it, he would not have deliberately cut so much ground from under his feet with that statement. That's the evidence The Journal submits.

Today, the result of his statement is that the chances of all potential candidates have been increased, whereas his own position, if he really meant to yield to the wishes of others, would be immeasurably weakened. Surely common sense is bound to dictate that conclusion.

Discussion of the meaning of the Coolidge statement will go on, of course. There probably will be some persons who will cling to the possibility that he will reverse himself, or will do so until they must accept his attitude as final. But Mr. Coolidge has spoken, he means what he says and he has said just what he meant. He is out of the race for the presidency in 1928.

A PRECIOUS TOKEN

OF special interest to Aitkin trapshooters as announced by the Aitkin Independent Age (and by the way of interest to all shooters of Northern Minnesota for Brainerd also has shooters who won the trophy) is the announcement of the gift of a solid gold tablet donated by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. King of St. Paul, large enough to be engraved with the names, residence, place of contest and the scores of the winners of the state diamond badge which has been in competition since 1885, and donated by the citizens of St. Paul.

The tablet when completed is to go with the diamond badge each year for 50 years, each winner's name to be added until the badge is 100 years old.

The diamond badge which is a perpetual reward for amateur championships is to never become the property of any one individual, but five times it has been won by Aitkin men, three times by E. J. Goward, once by R. D. Guptill and once by V. M. Sugrue. Mr. Goward is one of the two men on the role of victors who has the honor of winning the coveted prize three times.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

In its issue of last week the Brainerd Tribune carried the following editorial: "The Cass County Independent boasted last week, over the fact that all the printing, including premium lists for the Crow Wing County Fair is being done in Cass County. We presume that when the time comes that the Fair Association wants free publicity, it will turn to the Crow Wing County papers."

While this may look reasonable on its face, it is in fact as warped and unjustifiable a statement as it is possible to make. Without going into a lot of detail, the facts are these:

The statement made in the Cass County Independent, which the Tribune quoted in garbled form was that the Northern Minnesota Publishing Company was doing the printing for both the Beltrami county fair and the Crow Wing county fair.

The Northern Minnesota Publishing Company publishes the Pequot Review as well as the Cass County Independent. The Pequot Review is just as much a Crow Wing county institution as it ever was and is in a much better position than it ever was to boost the development of the county, as its improvement since the first of the year shows.

These facts the Brainerd Tribune knows as well as anyone.

What the Tribune may not know is that the Review receives the county fair printing and handles the publicity for the fair because past experience has shown that it is impractical to attempt to handle it from any other point. There is so much last minute detail to be taken care of that it could only be handled outside at greater expense both in money and in the time of members of the board who are giving time to the limit as it is. Prices charged by the Review are based upon those made by concerns that specialize in county fair printing and so cannot possibly be exorbitant.

We feel that while such may not be the Tribune's intention, the statement made is calculated to injure a Crow Wing county institution and is unfair to the Review. It would be as much in accord with the facts to say that a Brainerd bank is a St. Paul institution because the majority of its stock is held by a St. Paul capitalist as it is to insist that the Review is a Cass county institution because it is published by a company incorporated in Cass county. Theoretically a lawyer might split hairs over the proposition, but for practical purposes what difference does it make whether the Crow Wing county fair and the Pequot Review are fostered and developed by an individual living in the county or a corporation with an office outside which is following the plan of centralization which has proven so successful in other lines of business.

It is unfortunate that this controversy should be injected into the situation just before the fair. If it has any effect it can only be to injure. Printing for the year is practically all done and it would not be possible to change this phase of the situation this year. How much better, if the intention were really to be constructive, to have waited until after the fair if a newspaper controversy were desired, or to have gone to the county fair directors to make a complaint. If the Tribune should wish to bid on the county fair printing upon the basis of price and service for the next year's fair, it will certainly meet with no opposition from the Review, and there is no question but that such a bid will receive the consideration of members of the board.

HEART OF MAN YEARNS FOR STABILITY

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE, writing in the Emporia Gazette, voices the fact that the heart of man in Christendom is yearning for the inventor who can bring stability into the world. We are having good business now. We have had good business for ten years in America, barring the farmer, who has had a raw deal.

But speaking of the American continent and of Christendom in general, prices have been good, profits secure, business sound.

Fear of instability, fear of panic—blind, unreasoning, tomfool fear—is the only thing that is rocking the boat of business.

As a matter of fact, more and more stabilizing influences are touching both industry and agriculture. For instance cotton, wheat and feed crops, which find their market in livestock, are the great crops, the commercial cash crops. But along with these other staples are found for which the market is steady, the demand expanding, cash always ready; dairy and poultry products, truck crops, fruits and vegetables for canning, sugar and vegetable oils.

Markets for these are almost as stable as the markets for cotton and wheat and the feed crops and the whole range of agricultural products are like the great basic industries that dominate manufactures—that is, steel, textiles, food products, lumber, cement, and so on.

But, curiously enough, these basic industrial products are ramifying their products into ever expanding fields, broader and broader. Take steel: Forty years ago three-fourths of the country's steel output went into one product, rails. Now rails take up less than one tenth of all the rolled steel produced. Where rails once dominated, the automotive construction and oil industries have become major consumers of steel in the last decade. The canning industry alone takes half as much as is rolled into rails. Literally hundreds of minor but important employments have been equalizing the steel producers' market until the steel industry is almost stable. It rests upon so many different demands.

All this is most curious. It indicates an industrial revolution. The one thing which is needed to set the revolution into a permanent way is stability.

The heart of man in Christendom is panting for stability. The new Messiah is the statesman, financier or captain of industry who can invent stability. As the Jews were interested in spiritual things and their prophets were spiritual leaders, as the feudal world was interested in overlords and conquerors, as Queen Elizabeth's England was interested in self-expression and produced a Shakespeare, so the world today is looking for the Messiah, the prophet, the seer, who will produce in all this complex civilization known as Christendom that commercial reagent that will set the flux of the alloy and make permanent this new industrial world which has grown out of the whole world.

The need of a stabilizer is tremendous. Out of the need stability will come.

WHAT MR. COOLIDGE MEANT

THE Iowa corn belt has always watched Calvin Coolidge with an eagle eye ever since he vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill. It is illuminating to read the comment of the Sioux City, Iowa, Journal on Coolidge's recent statement.

Throughout the country there is a difference of opinion as to what President Coolidge meant when he said he did not "choose to run" in 1928. Most opinions are that this was equivalent to a positive statement that he would not be a candidate. Others, however, especially politicians who are eager for him to stand for re-election, consider that Mr. Coolidge merely expressed his own desire and left the way open for persuasion.

Technically, the language of the Coolidge statement means that Mr. Coolidge's preference is for retirement at the end of his administration March 4, 1929. "I do not choose to run" is not so definite as "I will not be a candidate" would have been. "I will not" expresses determination. "I do not choose" signifies that one's desire is for something else. So the country regards the Coolidge statement as something ambiguous, and, since the president has not amplified it, doubt as to the real meaning will continue.

Here is offered the evidence that "I do not choose to run" means "I am not and will not be a candidate." Everybody knows Mr. Coolidge to be a politic man, a careful individual in every step he takes. Quiet though he may be, he is known to be an accomplished politician. He has made few, if any, errors affecting his career. He has never been moved by impulse, but has taken every step carefully. If he had meant that he preferred not to run in 1928 but would do so if republican leaders insisted upon it, he would not have deliberately cut so much ground from under his feet with that statement. That's the evidence The Journal submits.

Today, the result of his statement is that the chances of all potential candidates have been increased, whereas his own position, if he really meant to yield to the wishes of others, would be immeasurably weakened. Surely common sense is bound to dictate that conclusion.

Discussion of the meaning of the Coolidge statement will go on, of course. There probably will be some persons who will cling to the possibility that he will reverse himself, or will do so until they must accept his attitude as final. But Mr. Coolidge has spoken, he means what he says and he has said just what he meant. He is out of the race for the presidency in 1928.

A PRECIOUS TOKEN

OF special interest to Aitkin trapshooters as announced by the Aitkin Independent Age (and by the way of interest to all shooters of Northern Minnesota for Brainerd also has shooters who won the trophy) is the announcement of the gift of a solid gold tablet donated by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. King of St. Paul, large enough to be engraved with the names, residence, place of contest and the scores of the winners of the state diamond badge which has been in competition since 1885, and donated by the citizens of St. Paul.

The tablet when completed is to go with the diamond badge each year for 50 years, each winner's name to be added until the badge is 100 years old.

The diamond badge which is a perpetual reward for amateur championships is to never become the property of any one individual, but five times it has been won by Aitkin men, three times by E. J. Goward, once by R. D. Guptill and once by V. M. Sugrue. Mr. Goward is one of the two men on the role of victors who has the honor of winning the coveted prize three times.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

In its issue of last week the Brainerd Tribune carried the following editorial: "The Cass County Independent boasted last week, over the fact that all the printing, including premium lists for the Crow Wing County Fair is being done in Cass County. We presume that when the time comes that the Fair Association wants free publicity, it will turn to the Crow Wing County papers."

While this may look reasonable on its face, it is in fact as warped and unjustifiable a statement as it is possible to make. Without going into a lot of detail, the facts are these:

The statement made in the Cass County Independent, which the Tribune quoted in garbled form was that the Northern Minnesota Publishing Company was doing the printing for both the Beltrami county fair and the Crow Wing county fair.

The Northern Minnesota Publishing Company publishes the Pequot Review as well as the Cass County Independent. The Pequot Review is just as much a Crow Wing county institution as it ever was and is in a much better position than it ever was to boost the development of the county, as its improvement since the first of the year shows.

These facts the Brainerd Tribune knows as well as anyone.

What the Tribune may not know is that the Review receives the county fair printing and handles the publicity for the fair because past experience has shown that it is impractical to attempt to handle it from any other point. There is so much last minute detail to be taken care of that it could only be handled outside at greater expense both in money and in the time of members of the board who are giving time to the limit as it is. Prices charged by the Review are based upon those made by concerns that specialize in county fair printing and so cannot possibly be exorbitant.

We feel that while such may not be the Tribune's intention, the statement made is calculated to injure a Crow Wing county institution and is unfair to the Review. It would be as much in accord with the facts to say that a Brainerd bank is a St. Paul institution because the majority of its stock is held by a St. Paul capitalist as it is to insist that the Review is a Cass county institution because it is published by a company incorporated in Cass county. Theoretically a lawyer might split hairs over the proposition, but for practical purposes what difference does it make whether the Crow Wing county fair and the Pequot Review are fostered and developed by an individual living in the county or a corporation with an office outside which is following the plan of centralization which has proven so successful in other lines of business.

It is unfortunate that this controversy should be injected into the situation just before the fair. If it has any effect it can only be to injure. Printing for the year is practically all done and it would not be possible to change this phase of the situation this year. How much better, if the intention were really to be constructive, to have waited until after the fair if a newspaper controversy were desired, or to have gone to the county fair directors to make a complaint. If the Tribune should wish to bid on the county fair printing upon the basis of price and service for the next year's fair, it will certainly meet with no opposition from the Review, and there is no question but that such a bid will receive the consideration of members of the board.

New York, Aug. 5.—Gene Tunney has been established in the early betting as a nine to five favorite to beat Jack Dempsey when he defends his heavyweight championship in Chicago next month.

So was Jack Sharkey a nine to five favorite when the former champion announced he was going to attempt a comeback.

The odds, it will be recalled, shifted strangely a few hours before Dempsey went into the ring against Sharkey, and when the fighters were ready to work Dempsey was a six to five favorite.

There were stories at the time that Arnold Rothstein and Abe Attell, who pulled an alleged coup in the first Dempsey-Tunney fight, had bet the homestead and all the family jewels on Dempsey.

But it was learned later that Rothstein and other big operators were not playing Dempsey, that they were loading all their cash on Sharkey, especially after the first round and that the big operators lost about $250,000 on their misplaced judgment.

The early odds mean little. Money is offered as a feeler and the operator who can get his money down early at a good price has a chance to copper his bet if he thinks his money is in the wrong groove.

The early odds probably will shift because Dempsey always has been a hard man to bet against and as long as he is able to walk into a ring and lift his hands he will be a risky man to bet against.

It is much too early to lay real money on either fighter. Form shown in training camps is not infallible. Dempsey and Tunney, especially Tunney, are in-and-outers in training camp bouts and too much can happen between now and the day of the fight.

But the writer has a hunch that Dempsey will be the favorite when he goes into the ring and the operations of the big operators will have nothing to do with it.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—An injunction, seeking to prevent the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavyweight championship bout here Sept. 22, will be sought within the next few days, according to Ralph Rosen, attorney for B. E. Clements, matchmaker of the Coliseum club here.

The injunction will seek to enjoin Dempsey to fulfill his contract with Clements, calling for a bout here with Harry Wills, Rosen said.

Clements already holds one injunction against Dempsey over the Wills contract. It was issued in Marion, Ind., from where Clements took it to Philadelphia seeking to stop the bout there. He arrived but one day before the battle, however, and the courts refused to act on it at that late date.

EDWARD TEMME, ENGLISHMAN, STARTS CHANNEL SWIM

Dover, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Edward Temme, an English swimmer, attempted to conquer the English channel, was reported one and one half miles off shore at 2 p. m. today.

Dispatches from Boulogne said Temme entered the water at Cape Gris Nez, France, at 12:42 a. m.

COMPLETES SWIM IN 14 HOURS, 27 MINUTES

Dover, Aug. 5.—(UP)—Conquest of the English channel by Edward Temme, an Englishman, was announced today by admiralty officials here.

The announcement said Temme swam the channel in 14 hours and 27 minutes.

Temme's feat was achieved just one day short of the first anniversary of Gertrude Ederle's triumph, Aug. 6, 1926, when she swam from Cape Gris Nez, France, to the English coast in 14 hours and 31 minutes.

RICHMOND, NEW SLAB ARTIST FOR NORTHEAST, STRIKES OUT EIGHT MEN

NUTTING AND BEDAL MAKE GREAT CATCHES; N. E. VS. I. O. O. F. TONIGHT

Richmond, N. E.'s new addition to their pitching staff, won his first start of the season from the Y. M. C. A. last evening by the score of 5 to 3. He was in splendid form, allowing only six hits and striking out eight men.

Engbretson was driven from the mound in the fourth, after he had been touched for three doubles, five singles and five runs. He was relieved by Stevens who set the Northeast club back in order.

Northeast hit hard and earned a real victory, making the race closer as the second half advances toward a close.

Nutting made two nice catches, with Bedal sharing honors as he speared a great drive on a long run. Northeast played a great game and looks good to cop the second half also. The South Side, however is making things hot for them. The N. E. team will meet the I. O. O. F. tonight at 6 oclock.

CUBS SCORE 5, WHILE BOSTON TEAM ROLLS UP 4 RUNS

19TH VICTORY OF THE SEASON FOR CHARLIE ROOT, CUBS' PITCHER

(By United Press)

A timely triple by Cliff Heathcote, substitute outfielder, kept the Cubs in undisputed possession of first place in the National League. Boston broke a tie in the eighth after a close game, but Heathcote's bit after two men had walked gave the Cubs two runs in their half and won the contest, 5 to 4. It was the 19th victory of the season for Charley Root, Cubs pitcher.

Meanwhile, the Pirates advanced half a game on Chicago by taking a double-header from the Phils, 8-5 and 7-3. Philadelphia had the first game won until the seventh when Pruett weakened and a Pittsburgh rally scored four runs. Ray Kremer got only pitched well for Pittsburgh in the second game but contributed a home run and two singles.

Elliott of Brooklyn relieved Clark on the mound in the seventh when a Card rally threatened and stopped it. The result was a 4 to 2 victory for the fighting Robins. Clark was credited with the victory.

Thanks to Larry Benton who held Cincinnati to six hits, the Giants continued their winning streak by beating the Reds, 4 to 1.

Carroll of Detroit held the Yankee "heavy artillery" to five hits while the Tigers were battering Dutch Reuther. The 6 to 2 victory for Detroit cost the Yanks one and one half games of their American League lead as the Senators won a double header.

Garland Buckeye of the Indians came back after a four-day suspension to shut out Philadelphia. Cleveland won 3 to 0. Buckeye allowed five hits.

Zachary and Thurston pitched so effectively in two games against the Browns that the latter were helpless from the start and Washington won both contests, 5-1 and 11-2. Gaston, who was allowed to go the entire route for St. Louis in the second game, allowed 17 hits.

The White Sox outhit Boston but Welzer kept the safeties well scattered and won the game, 2 to 1. Jacobs allowed the Red Sox only six hits. The Chicago Sox got nine.

Indianapolis, Ind. — The Kansas City Blues made it an even split of a four game series here by winning from Indianapolis, 9 to 2. Indianapolis scored their two tallies in the opening stanza. Murray allowed the Indians two hits in the nine innings.

---

Toledo, O.—Toledo and St. Paul divided a double ticket here, St. Paul taking the first 5 to 4 and Toledo taking the second, 10 to 2. The Hens hammered sixteen hits off McQuaid in the second game, while Wisner held St. Paul scoreless until the closing frame.

---

Columbus, O.—Minneapolis took an easy victory from Columbus here, 10 to 1. Neither Blemiller nor Norris were effective against the stellar hurling of Hubbel who allowed but five scattered hits.

---

Louisville, Ky.—Milwaukee hammered three Louisville pitchers for 13 hits to win here, 10 to 3. Eddleman while allowing twelve hits kept them well scattered.

FARRELL HAS HUNCH DEMPSEY WILL BE RING FAVORITE

TUNNEY RULES 9 TO 5 TO WIN IN EARLY BETS

SHARKEY, IT MAY BE MENTIONED, WAS ALSO FAVORITE IN EARLY BETTING

ODDS, IT WILL BE RECALLED, SHIFTED STRANGELY BEFORE BIG FIGHT

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 5.—Gene Tunney has been established in the early betting as a nine to five favorite to beat Jack Dempsey when he defends his heavyweight championship in Chicago next month.

So was Jack Sharkey a nine to five favorite when the former champion announced he was going to attempt a comeback.

The odds, it will be recalled, shifted strangely a few hours before Dempsey went into the ring against Sharkey, and when the fighters were ready to work Dempsey was a six to five favorite.

There were stories at the time that Arnold Rothstein and Abe Attell, who pulled an alleged coup in the first Dempsey-Tunney fight, had bet the homestead and all the family jewels on Dempsey.

But it was learned later that Rothstein and other big operators were not playing Dempsey, that they were loading all their cash on Sharkey especially after the first round and that the big operators lost about $250,000 on their misplaced judgment.

The early odds mean little. Money is offered as a feeler and the operator who can get his money down early at a good price has a chance to copper his bet if he thinks his money is in the wrong groove.

The early odds probably will shift because Dempsey always has been a hard man to bet against and as long as he is able to walk into a ring and lift his hands he will be a risky man to bet against.

It is much too early to lay real money on either fighter. Form shown in training camps is not infallible. Dempsey and Tunney, especially Tunney, are in-and-outers in training camp bouts and too much can happen between now and the day of the fight.

But the writer has a hunch that Dempsey will be the favorite when he goes into the ring and the operations of the big operators will have nothing to do with it.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—An injunction, seeking to prevent the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney heavyweight championship bout here Sept. 22, will be sought within the next few days, according to Ralph Rosen, attorney for B. E. Clements, matchmaker of the Coliseum club here.

The injunction will seek to enjoin Dempsey to fulfill his contract with Clements, calling for a bout here with Harry Wills, Rosen said.

Clements already holds one injunction against Dempsey over the Wills contract. It was issued in Marion, Ind., from where Clements took it to Philadelphia seeking to stop the bout there. He arrived but one day before the battle, however, and the courts refused to act on it at that late date.

12 BOYS ARE GIVEN REWARD

Had Shown Unusual Progress at Camp Lincoln for Boys

GAIN FINE CANOE TRIP

Party Exploring Canadian Wilds in Charge of Herb Joesting and R. F. B. Cote

Twelve boys have been rewarded for their unusual progress at Camp Lincoln for Boys, on Lake Hubert, by a canoe trip into the Canadian wilds. On the basis of camping and swimming ability the following boys have been selected from the seventy-five attending the camp:

Herbert and Robert Bement, St. Paul; Dudley Russell, Fred Atkinson, Clark Stafford and Frank Wheeler, Minneapolis; Bland Runyon, Sioux City Iowa; Robert Everett, Lafayette Young III, and William Prouty, Des Moines, Iowa; John Twitchell, Owatonna; and Robert Coleman, Clinton, Okla.

The boys are in charge of Herbert Joesting, all-American fullback, and R. F. B. Cote, director of the camp. The boys will enjoy a two hundred fifty mile motor truck trip north to Winton, Minn., the gateway to the Superior National Forest and the Quetico Park of Canada. They will leave the truck at Winton and take to canoes, covering two to three hundred miles amidst lakes seldom traveled by man. The boys are armed with cameras and expect to have a number of pictures of the wild game they will encounter.

LEVINE MAY FLY BACK TO NEW YORK EARLY TOMORROW

Le Bourget Field, France, Aug. 5 — (UP) — Charles A. Levine announced today that his return flight across the Atlantic to New York might begin tomorrow.

Levine said Maurice Drouhin, the pilot engaged for the flight, had given the monoplane Columbia a satisfactory test today with a 1,000 kilogram load.

Weather reports were awaited from the S. S. Leviathan and if the reports were favorable, Levine said the flight might start. He was extremely annoyed on arriving at the field when he found that Drouhin had left.

David Graham, 21, son of W. T. Iowa City, Ia., Aug. 5.—(UP) — Graham, former superintendent of the University of Iowa hospital, shot and killed himself with a revolver this afternoon.

A note addressed to his father, who now lives at LaFayette, Ind., said he was tired of being "nagged and nagged," and that he realized he had always been a "blunderer."

The suicie took place in the back room of a clothing store where the young man was employed as clerk.

BRAINERD AT LEGION MEET

Earl Rhodes, Ray Hall and Art Hagberg Delegates From Local Post

AT HIBBING AUGUST 8, 9, 10

American Legion Auxiliary Orchestra of City to Play at Hibbing

Earl Rhodes, Ray Hall and Art Hagberg have been elected delegates from the local American Legion post to represent Brainerd at the State Legion convention to be held at Hibbing, August 8, 9, 10. The alternates chosen were Al. Englund, Kirk Smith and Bert Orne. Representatives sent from the Legion Auxiliary will include Mrs. Bert Orne and Mrs. Art Hagberg.

Brainerd is expected to make a grand showing at the convention as many members are planning to motor up for some of the sessions and the American Legion Auxiliary orchestra, the only one of its kind, in the state of Minnesota, will be present to help put Brainerd on the map.

In the last issue of "The American Legionaire," the orchestra received much favorable comment. Above a three column picture of the orchestra was the heading "These beautiful Brainerd Gopherettes will be at Hibbing early Monday and will play on the Brainerd float in the parade."

Members of the orchestra will be attired in their natty new suits and with their famous pep and musicianship should make a big hit at the gathering. The personnel includes the Misses Gladys Senn, Gladys Peterson, Emily Mraz, Ethel Fox, Irene Turcotte, Mayme Scallen, Mayme Nelson, Irene Englund, Mrs. Robert Anderson and Mrs. Louis Johnson.

MOTION PICTURE EXECUTIVE FOUND SHOT DEAD

FOUND IN CAR AT HOLLYWOOD WITH BULLET IN HIS HEAD

BESIDE HIM WAS DYING GIRL, WHOSE IDENTITY WAS UNKNOWN

Los Angeles, Aug. 5. — (UP) — Hamilton B. Manon, motion picture executive and vice president of the Tecart Studios, was found dead in an automobile early today with a bullet hole in his head.

Beside him in the car was a dying girl whose identity has not been established. She died before she could be gotten to a hospital of bullet wounds.

The car was found by a passing motorist in the heart of Hollywood. The theory of police was that the girl shot Manon and then turned the gun on herself.

No identification papers were found on the girl but the identity of Manon was definitely established through personal effects which included a love letter signed "Min."

Manon was well known in the motion picture industry both here and in New York.

The shooting was believed to have occurred shortly after one o'clock.

HOPE COOLIDGE WILL BE A CANDIDATE

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 5.—(UP) —Lingering hope that President Coolidge will yet be prevailed upon to run for re-election is going to "keep business up," Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, declared today after calling upon Mr. Coolidge at the summer executive office.

"If it should generally be believed Mr. Coolidge would not be a candidate the effect would be depressing upon business," he said.

Sargent asserted that his railroad is carrying six times as many cars of crop stuffs this year as last, and that he never saw crops so good.

St. Paul, Aug. 5.—(UP) — Two men are under arrest here today in connection with the holdup in Minneapolis of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Elberts in which $1,500 worth of jewelry and $30 cash was taken early Thursday.

Frank Barr, St. Paul, and Joe Ryan, Minneapolis, were arrested here late Thursday and were identified by the Elberts as the men who robbed them as they were about to enter their garage.

ONE THING THAT CHARACTERIZES THE NORTHWEST IS ITS LOVE OF FINE COFFEES—ESPECIALLY ARCO COFFEE

Now in the Limelight!

ONE kind of coffee—if it were the most expensive in the world—could never equal the taste of Arco Coffee! Because Arco is a BLEND of the richest and some of the less rich, in order to make a drinking coffee that EXACTLY suits the Northwest's taste. Fine words will sell some coffees—but fine flavor sells ARCO COFFEE.

And today, popular demand is increasing the daily output of the Arco mills. To give people coffee BLENDED to the Northwest's taste is proving a success. And WHY should we drink a different blend that comes from an entirely different clime?

The fresh deliciousness of Arco Coffee, as it is packed into "Everlastingly Fresh" vacuum cans, reaches you with the breath of the ovens still in it!

COUNTY ENJOYS ENVIABLE POSITION

Stands Prominent Among Northern Neighbors Regarding Taxation

F. D. VIBERT INTERVIEWED

In Comparison, Conditions in Koochiching, Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Cited

Crow Wing county holds an enviable position among its northern neighbors with regard to taxation, said Former Senator Fred D. Vibert, a visitor in the city yesterday, who complimented this county upon the fact, saying that it was doubtful if local residents fully appreciate this happy state of affairs.

To substantiate his statements, Mr. Vibert cited the following statistics, which he quoted from figures made public by the state tax commission, conditions discovered by the legislative committee on reforestation, and by government surveys. These facts were not pointed out with the idea of putting the counties referred to in any unjust light, but rather to bring out forcifully the good conditions locally, and to show what the national and state governments are confronted with and what they are fighting.

Koochiching county, said Mr. Vibert, has 784,000 acres of state lands, making a total of half of its area untaxable. Of the remaining half of this county 50 percent of the taxes are delinquent, with the result that the balance, or one-fourth of the county is shouldering the whole tax load.

In Beltrami county, continued the speaker, 53 percent of the taxes are on the delinquent list. A small area of this county is state and government land. The lower half of the county is well settled and a good farming district, now paying a fair tax, but the northern portion is delinquent in its ditch taxes, which are county taxes, and if allowed to remain in this delinquent condition may in time affect materially the taxes of the farmers in the south portion.

Lake of the Woods county was unable to meet the interest on its bonded indebtedness, and overcame the obstacle by issuing refundment bonds with which to pay this interest. Last year 33 per cent of Aitkin county's taxes went on the delinquent list, said Mr. Vibert.

Summing up similar conditions in Minnesota, the former senator stated that the state tax commission found in the year 1925 there were 3,700,000 acres on the delinquent tax lists, and this enormous total was still further increased last year to 4,100,000 acres.

In 1925 the back taxes due and delinquent amounted to $28,000,000, according to Mr. Vibert, who was unable to quote the figures for last year. He pointed out the fact that it costs just as much, if not more, to run the state, county and city with this delinquency as it would without it. In other words, that someone is paying the taxes for those who are delinquent, as well as paying their own.

These above facts were brought out at hearings before the special committees on reforestation and before Prof. H. H. Chapman, Yale professor appointed by the U. S. secretary of agriculture under the Clark-McNary act, providing for a survey to be made of the forest states of the nation. Both agencies are seeking a possible solution to the great problem in reforesting the areas effected, and while this may be a slow method of assistance, still it is believed that ultimately it will relieve the difficulty.

To compare the conditions existing in the above counties with the happy state of affairs in Crow Wing county, Forest Ranger E. H. Rhodes, stated that only about 12 or 15 per cent of the taxes are delinquent locally, and these delinquencies are mostly found in deserted mining localities.

Much of the delinquency in the northern portion of the state may be traced to ditch taxes, said Mr. Vibert, the counties affected being unable to meet this added assessment. Crow Wing county seems fortunate in having very little lands requiring ditching.

Mr. Vibert is now executive director of the Minnesota Arrowhead Association, with headquarters in Duluth. He is visiting the cities and towns ahead of the special committee appointed by the last legislature on reforestation, arranging the itinerary for this committee's tour, and acting as its advance agent. The committee will pass through Brainerd next week.

OLDEST SETTLER OF CROSS LAKE DIES

"Cod" Kimball Was First to Drive Logs From Cross Lake to Minneapolis

IN DISTRICT 58 YEARS

Came to Minnesota From Ohio With Team of Oxen at Age of 14 Years

A. T. Kimball, known throughout the state as "Cod" Kimball, who cut the first log in the Cross Lake territory and drove logs from Cross Lake down the Mississippi river to Minneapolis for eleven successive springs when the northwest was in its first stages of industry and Brainerd was but a stopping off place for replenishing of provisions, passed away early this morning at the St. Joseph's hospital at the age of 80 years.

Mr. Kimball was possibly the last of the old timers of this section of the state, having lived at Pelican Creek, near Cross Lake for the past 58 years. He came to Minnesota with his parents, three brothers and two sisters when he was 14 years old and has been a resident of the state ever since. The journey from Medina township, near Akron, O., where he was born was made by ox team. He has seen two wars, the Civil war and the world war, and has witnessed the progress of the northwest from its infancy to its present high state in the world of commerce. After his logging days he bought land on the location of his early pioneering days and established a fine farm.

A few scattered houses marked the location of Brainerd when Mr. Kimball first passed this way. At that time Crow Wing was the main stopping place where pioneers would drive in with oxen and horses for their monthly supplies.

Mr. Kimball with Ami Gould, deceased were the first two white settlers into the Cross Lake area. Indians occupied squatty shacks and lived in tribes, working for the whites in the logging trade. "Cod" at that time was logging for the Paton and Frye Lumber Co., of Minneapolis.

Roads were but trails and transportation in the summer time was by way of the Mississippi river, flat bottom boats being used for the freighting of provisions for any distance. During the winter the settlers were able to use sleighs, skirting through the tall pines that were everywhere.

After the coming of logging in these parts, Mr. Kimball built a ranch house for lumbermen on the shore of Pelican Creek. The buildings however were washed down the stream 31 years ago by the breaking of the Cross Lake dyke. The only remains of the old ranch buildings now are two old decayed barns.

As the little town grew "Cod" was instrumental in the bringing in of the first school house, and since had been clerk of the school district there for 30 years. He also was a member of the Mission town board for 12 years.

When the Knights of Pythias was first organized in Brainerd, Mr. Kimball became a member and has been one for the past 30 years.

Members of his lodge will pay their last respects to the grand old man at the funeral to be conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Whitney undertaking chapel. Interment will be in Evergren cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Effie Kimball, two sons, A. J. Kimball, Los Angeles, Cal., Harold L. of Cross Lake, one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Nisselius, Gillette, Wyoming; three brothers, John, of Champlin, Minn.; Ed., of Cross Lake; Joseph, of California; and one sister, Mrs. Lestie Dowlin, of Champlin, Minn.

WATER SAFETY WORK EXPLAINED

Earl R. Berg, Director of Such For Red Cross, Addresses Lions Club

LIFE SAVING METHODS

E. G. Roth, County Agent, Continues Club's Series of Pep Talks

The American Red Cross is doing a great service in water safety work, Earl R. Berg, water safety director for Crow Wing county, told the Brainerd Lions club at its weekly luncheon Wednesday evening.

In the last ten years swimming has become one of the great national sports, said Mr. Berg. Each year finds a greater number of people, both young and old enjoying the advantages of the bathing beachs. But with this increase came also the increased number of deaths by drowning, with the result that an appeal was made to the Red Cross in the hope that a majority of the attendant dangers might be eliminated.

The Red Cross answered this appeal in its characteristically efficient manner, by instituting life saving corps in communities effected throughout the United States. These corps carry on an intensive campaign of water accident prevention, and the results thus obtained in the past two years have proven the success of the step.

Last year the death rate by drowning was reduced from 9,000, the total for 1925, to 6,000, said Mr. Berg, and this reduction of 3,000 deaths was made in the face of the fact that there was a decided increase in the number of people enjoying water sports. It is expected that an even better showing will be made before the end of the present season.

During 1926 the American Red Cross trained for life saving work 26,248 men; 18,985 women, and 48,416 juniors corps members. This year, with a more intensive educational program, a greater number will be trained in water safety, said the local director.

These men, women and children trained by the Red Cross are residents of the various communities where water sports are possible, and they are in all cases giving of their time and services without remuneration other than the satisfaction of assisting in a most worthy campaign.

Mr. Berg has already accomplished much in the six short weeks that he has been directing the work in Crow Wing county. He has completed the training of 25 junior members, ranging from 12 to 17 years of age, and five seniors, above the age of 17 years.

These local young people have been intensively trained in prevention of drowning, as well as in life saving methods, and with many others have been taught to enjoy water sports without the attendant dangers heretofore attached.

Mr. Berg, using one of his young pupils, demonstrated life saving methods before the Lions club, and closed his interesting address with a plea for cooperation with the local chapter of the American Red Cross in its campaign to remove the dangers from one of the fastest growing of national sports, swimming.

E. G. Roth, county agent, continued the Lions club series of "Pep" talks, with a very forceful address on the possibilities of Crow Wing county.

"With the excellent opportunities offered here, every farm in the county should be occupied by a prosperous farmer," said the county agent. "This is an ideal place for the agriculturalist, no matter upon what branch of the work he chooses to concentrate."

The speaker pointed out numerous facts to support his arguments. He referred to Crow Wing county as the "Corn Belt of Northern Minnesota," a county where diversified farming may be practiced as successfully as in any other portion of the Northwest, with alfalfa possibilities equal to those of Kansas, usually held up as an ideal state for the growing of this crop, and with clover equal to the famous "Clover Region."

The Canadian fur belt extends south through Crow Wing county to Mille Lacs lake, said Mr. Roth, and this industry is receiving added impetus with several good fur farms that are thriving locally.

"Farmers should be flocking to Crow Wing county by the hundreds" continued the speaker. With excellent profits from dairying; with crop possibilities equal and in many cases excelling those in other states, and even in this state; and with the hearty, practical cooperation offered by the business men of Brainerd, farmers of limited means are able to come to this county and work out successful careers.

"It remains for us who live here to broadcast the wonderful opportunities of our county, that our goal of a farmer on every farm may materialize," concluded Mr. Roth.

Miss Georgia Drexler captivated the club with her vocal selections, rendering first, "The Birthday," and as an encore "You Don't Like it—Not Much." She was accompanied at the piano by her sister, Miss Effie Drexler.

He came to Minnesota with his parents, three brothers and two sisters when he was 14 years old and has been a resident of the state ever since. The journey from Medina township, near Akron, O., where he was born was made by ox team. He has seen two wars, the Civil war and the world war, and has witnessed the progress of the northwest from its infancy to its present high state in the world of commerce. After his logging days he bought land on the location of his early pioneering days and established a fine farm.

A few scattered houses marked the location of Brainerd when Mr. Kimball first passed this way. At that time Crow Wing was the main stopping place where pioneers would drive in with oxen and horses for their monthly supplies.

Mr. Kimball with Ami Gould, deceased were the first two white settlers into the Cross Lake area. Indians occupied squatty shacks and lived in tribes, working for the whites in the logging trade. "Cod" at that time was logging for the Patton and Frye Lumber Co., of Minneapolis.

Roads were but trails and transportation in the summer time was by way of the Mississippi river, flat bottom boats being used for the freighting of provisions for any distance. During the winter the settlers were able to use sleighs, skirting through the tall pines that were everywhere.

After the coming of logging in these parts, Mr. Kimball built a ranch house for lumbermen on the shore of Pelican Creek. The buildings however were washed down the stream 31 years ago by the breaking of the Cross Lake dyke. The only remains of the old ranch buildings now are two old decayed barns.

As the little town grew "Cod" was instrumental in the bringing in of the first school house, and since had been clerk of the school district there for 30 years. He also was a member of the Mission town board for 12 years.

When the Knights of Pythias was first organized in Brainerd, Mr. Kimball became a member and has been one for the past 30 years.

Members of his lodge will pay their last respects to the grand old man at the funeral to be conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Whitney undertaking chapel. Interment will be in Evergren cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Effie Kimball, two sons, A. J. Kimball, Los Angeles, Cal., Harold L. of Cross Lake, one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Nisselius, Gillette, Wyoming; three brothers, John, of Champlin, Minn.; Ed., of Cross Lake; Joseph, of California; and one sister, Mrs. Lestie Dowlin, of Champlin, Minn.

WATER SAFETY WORK EXPLAINED

LIFE SAVING METHODS

E. G. Roth, County Agent, Continues Club's Series of Pep Talks

The American Red Cross is doing a great service in water safety work, Earl R. Berg, water safety director for Crow Wing county, told the Brainerd Lions club at its weekly luncheon Wednesday evening.

In the last ten years swimming has become one of the great national sports, said Mr. Berg. Each year finds a greater number of people, both young and old enjoying the advantages of the bathing beachs. But with this increase came also the increased number of deaths by drowning, with the result that an appeal was made to the Red Cross in the hope that a majority of the attendant dangers might be eliminated.

The Red Cross answered this appeal in its characteristically efficient manner, by instituting life saving corps in communities effected throughout the United States. These corps carry on an intensive campaign of water accident prevention, and the results thus obtained in the past two years have proven the success of the step.

Last year the death rate by drowning was reduced from 9,000, the total for 1925, to 6,000, said Mr. Berg, and this reduction of 3,000 deaths was made in the face of the fact that there was a decided increase in the number of people enjoying water sports. It is expected that an even better showing will be made before the end of the present season.

During 1926 the American Red Cross trained for life saving work 26,248 men; 18,985 women, and 48,416 juniors corps members. This year, with a more intensive educational program, a greater number will be trained in water safety, said the local director.

These men, women and children trained by the Red Cross are residents of the various communities where water sports are possible, and they are in all cases giving of their time and services without remuneration other than the satisfaction of assisting in a most worthy campaign.

Mr. Berg has already accomplished much in the six short weeks that he has been directing the work in Crow Wing county. He has completed the training of 25 junior members, ranging from 12 to 17 years of age, and five seniors, above the age of 17 years.

These local young people have been intensively trained in prevention of drowning, as well as in life saving methods, and with many others have been taught to enjoy water sports without the attendant dangers heretofore attached.

Mr. Berg, using one of his young pupils, demonstrated life saving methods before the Lions club, and closed his interesting address with a plea for cooperation with the local chapter of the American Red Cross in its campaign to remove the dangers from one of the fastest growing of national sports, swimming.

E. G. Roth, county agent, continued the Lions club series of "Pep" talks, with a very forceful address on the possibilities of Crow Wing county.

"With the excellent opportunities offered here, every farm in the county should be occupied by a prosperous farmer," said the county agent. "This is an ideal place for the agriculturalist, no matter upon what branch of the work he chooses to concentrate."

The speaker pointed out numerous facts to support his arguments. He referred to Crow Wing county as the "Corn Belt of Northern Minnesota," a county where diversified farming may be practiced as successfully as in any other portion of the Northwest, with alfalfa possibilities equal to those of Kansas, usually held up as an ideal state for the growing of this crop, and with clover equal to the famous "Clover Region."

The Canadian fur belt extends south through Crow Wing county to Mille Lacs lake, said Mr. Roth, and this industry is receiving added impetus with several good fur farms that are thriving locally.

"Farmers should be flocking to Crow Wing county by the hundreds" continued the speaker. With excellent profits from dairying; with crop possibilities equal and in many cases excelling those in other states, and even in this state; and with the hearty, practical cooperation offered by the business men of Brainerd, farmers of limited means are able to come to this county and work out successful careers.

"It remains for us who live here to broadcast the wonderful opportunities of our county, that our goal of a farmer on every farm may materialize," concluded Mr. Roth.

Miss Georgia Drexler captivated the club with her vocal selections, rendering first, "The Birthday," and as an encore "You Don't Like it—Not Much." She was accompanied at the piano by her sister, Miss Effie Drexler.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA PRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary's elder brother, David, is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby, the younger. Mary gets a job in a night club. It is raided. Mary, judged to have criminal influences, is sentenced to a reform school. She gets a letter from Bobby, who is ill; and runs away to visit him. Arthur Graham, rich young man involved in David's conviction, is on the Asylum's Board.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

Miss Campbell would. Miss Campbell arose. A merry smile about the room, shedding its radiance on the rows of hats. There wasn't very much that she could tell them this week. It had been a very quiet week and she was afraid that this time there would have been nothing of interest to relate had it not been for the very unusual occurrence that had taken place this morning!

An interested rustle, as the forms beneath the hats straightened in their seats. Miss Campbell waited until the little breeze had died down. Then, with another smile, acknowledging their interest and promising them full returns, she launched forth.

It was, of course, the mention of the brother who had been sent up for manslaughter that pricked the attention of Graham, who sat enclasping his ankle, his gaze upon Miss Campbell, although his thoughts were not with her. The mention of the brother who had been sent up for manslaughter, a drunken roisterer. Miss Campbell would not go on out of deference to one who, they all knew, had been the innocent victim of fate in Sullivan's mad careening toward the loveliness of the flower that lay in his path. Miss Campbell had grown flushed, and the unwonted oratory had brought out the little beads of perspiration on the length of her upper lip. She went on in still greater detail, mentioning the circumstances of Mary's flight, stressing Abner Baker, his aid to the girl, stressing everything that might be laid open to devious significances.

Graham rose and sauntered from the room. There were times when the "hard actualities of life" were harder than even they had a right to be. He returned to the voluble matron, asked for her keys and where to reach Mary, and went in search of her. The recital of Mary's flight, far from astounding him, had touched a part of him he had long since thought sapped of the ability to feel. The graphic picture of her escapade had aroused a feeling of admiration, the desire to see this girl who had flown in the face of an inscrutable power, acknowledging its superior force, but refusing to admit defeat.

When, after a somewhat shy repitition of what he had heard from the lips of Miss Campbell, he heard Mary say that now she was prepared to return to the Home, that seeing Bobbie had been the one remaining desire of her life, Graham resolved that something ought to be done. He cast about for the one to do it and then, with a leap of sudden interest, asked himself why not he?

"At any rate," he told Mary, "there need no longer be the worry of returning to the Home. I'll see about that."

And he had. And now he watched Mary as she wiped the moisture in her eyes, moisture that persisted in flowing, as she explained that it was very strange. Shakily. It was very strange that she should cry, when she was so happy.

In sudden generosity of soul, in the desire to indulge to the utmost this swell of spirits that ebbed in him and which made him curiously eager for more of life and its developments, he continued.

"I shall arrange, too, that Robert be given into your care, Mary," and watched the effect upon her of that. It was pure selfishness on his part, of course. He enjoyed the lift of her head and the look of unbelief that flashed into her eyes, making them enormous. He enjoyed the feel of her firm young fingers when she grasped his hand in the excess of her gratitude.

"Nothing—there's nothing I can say, Mr. Graham!"

"There is nothing I want you to say, Mary. Except, of course," Arthur came to place his hands on her shoulders and hold her straight and eager before him, "except 'yes' to what it is that I am going to ask of you."

"Yes, yes, yes!" An eager string of them that poured forth. "I don't wait until you ask. I say yes, Mr. Graham, no matter what it is."

He laughed at that. "Caution has no part in your make-up. I can see that. And it's just as well, I suppose. Very well, then," gayly. "Let it be yes, yes, yes!"

"Won't you tell me what it is to which I have agreed?" pleaded Mary.

"No. There's to be no backsliding, remember that." Arthur was quite gay. He strode up and down the narrow confines of the little infirmary with its white iron beds, his face alive with planning, while Mary watched. She found it difficult not to join in his hilarity of spirit. Life had become so delightfully simple. The past had been washed away by the careless efforts of a very rich young man. What it was to which he had asked her to agree she did not know, nor care. It would be another large gesture of munificence, doubtlessly. That could remain in the future. The unbelievable freedom that lay before her path now was dazzling with its promise. To be home again—for Mary knew she would return to the peace of Garden City—to make a home for Robert there where they would both wait for David—David. It had been long since he had had a place in her thoughts, so absorbed had she been in the far greater frailty of the younger brother. David. Neither she nor Graham had mentioned his name. She because of the pain she knew it would recall to him, Arthur because of the memories it would doubtlessly bring back to Mary. It lay between them, the shadow of David, and prevented the more easy familiarity for which both were reaching out. The blessed peace that Arthur was bringing into her life with his advent came as a gracious boon to Mary. She could not have strode her path without the courage she had taken since its inception. Weariness had begun to seep through, there had been longings for something which she could not name. The strength that emanated from the hardness of Arthur. The knowledge of this same strength which he took as a part of himself was as salve to her bruised spirit. She longed to bathe in it. When he touched her shoulders it was to infuse some of this strength into her. She still could feel the firm pressure of his hand when she had clutched it in her own. Safety. It was a canopy that radiated from the person of Graham, and under which Mary longed to bask. The shadow of it would bring relief from the glare of the noonday of life, that had been beating down upon her. Was she indeed the same girl who longed to walk the mountain-tops with the quicksilver of her spirit? Much water had passed beneath the bridge since then.

She watched Arthur now, amusedly, happily. He had stopped in the midst of his pacing of the room and brought his hand to his forehead. "I have it!" he announced. The boyishness became him. Removed the weary lines that forked from the sides of his eyes and lifted the usual jaded heaviness from the thickness of his jaw.

He turned to Robert, whose eyes had been focused upon him in his striding of the room.

"Hi, Bob, how would you like to come to live with me?" He stood at the foot of the bed, watching the small boy.

"Who with?" demanded young Robert.

Arthur counted them off on his fingers. "Mary, and a very delightful old lady whom you will call Aunt Mollie, and a still more delightful old gentleman whom you will call Uncle Jasper. And me."

"Well," mused Robert thoughtfully, "have you asked Mary?"

"Mary," announced Arthur Graham, with a swift glance at Mary where she stood with her hand on her heart, "Mary has said yes. Not once, but three times."

"Mr. Graham—" She took a step forward. She had expected a munificent gesture, but nothing like this.

"Please, Mary. Remember you promised. And of your own free will. I told you to use caution."

"I think, then," said young Robert thoughtfully, "that I should probably like it very much."

"Oh, Robert!"

"Well, Mary, I prob'ly would."

JAPAN TO HOLD SELF ALOOF FROM NAVAL RACE

Tokio, Aug. 5.—(UP) — "Japan will hold herself aloof from any naval race," the minister of marine said today in commenting on the failure of the Coolidge naval limitations conference at Geneva.

"The world wide sympathy for Japan's efforts at Geneva," said Premier Tanaka, "constitute a triumph for Japan, whatever else failed."

The press generally commented with satisfaction that Japan had made her peaceable position plain and that the result probably would be better understanding between America and Japan.

Graham rose and sauntered from the room. There were times when the "hard actualities of life" were harder than even they had a right to be. He returned to the voluble matron, asked for her keys and where to reach Mary, and went in search of her. The recital of Mary's flight, far from astounding him, had touched a part of him he had long since thought sapped of the ability to feel. The graphic picture of her escapade had aroused a feeling of admiration, the desire to see this girl who had flown in the face of an inscrutable power, acknowledging its superior force, but refusing to admit defeat.

When, after a somewhat shy repitition of what he had heard from the lips of Miss Campbell, he heard Mary say that now she was prepared to return to the Home, that seeing Bobbie had been the one remaining desire of her life, Graham resolved that something ought to be done. He cast about for the one to do it and then, with a leap of sudden interest, asked himself why not he?

"At any rate," he told Mary, "there need no longer be the worry of returning to the Home. I'll see about that."

And he had. And now he watched Mary as she wiped the moisture in her eyes, moisture that persisted in flowing, as she explained that it was very strange. Shakily. It was very strange that she should cry, when she was so happy.

In sudden generosity of soul, in the desire to indulge to the utmost this swell of spirits that ebbed in him and which made him curiously eager for more of life and its developments, he continued.

"I shall arrange, too, that Robert be given into your care, Mary," and watched the effect upon her of that. It was pure selfishness on his part, of course. He enjoyed the lift of her head and the look of unbelief that flashed into her eyes, making them enormous. He enjoyed the feel of her firm young fingers when she grasped his hand in the excess of her gratitude.

"Nothing—there's nothing I can say, Mr. Graham!"

"There is nothing I want you to say, Mary. Except, of course," Arthur came to place his hands on her shoulders and hold her straight and eager before him, "except 'yes' to what it is that I am going to ask of you."

"Yes, yes, yes!" An eager string of them that poured forth. "I don't wait until you ask. I say yes, Mr. Graham, no matter what it is."

He laughed at that. "Caution has no part in your make-up. I can see that. And it's just as well, I suppose. Very well, then," gayly. "Let it be yes, yes, yes!"

"Won't you tell me what it is to which I have agreed?" pleaded Mary.

"No. There's to be no backsliding, remember that." Arthur was quite gay. He strode up and down the narrow confines of the little infirmary with its white iron beds, his face alive with planning, while Mary watched. She found it difficult not to join in his hilarity of spirit. Life had become so delightfully simple. The past had been washed away by the careless efforts of a very rich young man. What it was to which he had asked her to agree she did not know, nor care. It would be another large gesture of munificence, doubtlessly. That could remain in the future. The unbelievable freedom that lay before her path now was dazzling with its promise. To be home again—for Mary knew she would return to the peace of Garden City—to make a home for Robert there where they would both wait for David—David. It had been long since he had had a place in her thoughts, so absorbed had she been in the far greater frailty of the younger brother. David. Neither she nor Graham had mentioned his name. She because of the pain she knew it would recall to him, Arthur because of the memories it would doubtlesely bring back to Mary. It lay between them, the shadow of David, and prevented the more easy familiarity for which both were reaching out. The blessed peace that Arthur was bringing into her life with his advent came as a gracious boon to Mary. She could not have strode her path without the courage she had taken since its inception. Weariness had begun to seep through, there had been longings for something which she could not name. The strength that emanated from the hardness of Arthur. The knowledge of this same strength which he took as a part of himself was as salve to her bruised spirit. She longed to bathe in it. When he touched her shoulders it was to infuse some of this strength into her. She still could feel the firm pressure of his hand when she had clutched it in her own. Safety. It was a canopy that radiated from the person of Graham, and under which Mary longed to bask. The shadow of it would bring relief from the glare of the noonday of life, that had been beating down upon her. Was she indeed the same girl who longed to walk the mountain-tops with the quicksilver of her spirit? Much water had passed beneath the bridge since then.

She watched Arthur now, amusedly, happily. He had stopped in the midst of his pacing of the room and brought his hand to his forehead. "I have it!" he announced. The boyishness became him. Removed the weary lines that forked from the sides of his eyes and lifted the usual jaded heaviness from the thickness of his jaw.

He turned to Robert, whose eyes had been focused upon him in his striding of the room.

"Hi, Bob, how would you like to come to live with me?" He stood at the foot of the bed, watching the small boy.

"Who with?" demanded young Robert.

Arthur counted them off on his fingers. "Mary, and a very delightful old lady whom you will call Aunt Mollie, and a still more delightful old gentleman whom you will call Uncle Jasper. And me."

"Well," mused Robert thoughtfully, "have you asked Mary?"

"Mary," announced Arthur Graham, with a swift glance at Mary where she stood with her hand on her heart, "Mary has said yes. Not once, but three times."

"Mr. Graham—" She took a step forward. She had expected a munificent gesture, but nothing like this.

"Please, Mary. Remember you promised. And of your own free will. I told you to use caution."

"I think, then," said young Robert thoughtfully, "that I should probably like it very much."

"Oh, Robert!"

JAPAN TO HOLD SELF ALOOF FROM NAVAL RACE

Tokio, Aug. 5.—(UP) — "Japan will hold herself aloof from any naval race," the minister of marine said today in commenting on the failure of the Coolidge naval limitations conference at Geneva.

"The world wide sympathy for Japan's efforts at Geneva," said Premier Tanaka, "constitute a triumph for Japan, whatever else failed."

The press generally commented with satisfaction that Japan had made her peaceable position plain and that the result probably would be better understanding between America and Japan.
